- Water Works proprietary unique multi-micro emulsifying surfactant technology allows the blending of surfactants that would otherwise be incompatible with each other, opening an array of effective multi-surfactant solutions not formerly available in water based technologies.

Machanism of Operation

With organic material removal, the polarizable groups of non-ionic surfactant molecules are attracted to particles, attach, and remove small portions, effectively dissolving the material into the aqueous environment to be washed away.

Water Works' unique multi-micro emulsified surfactant blend quickly dissolves organic hydro carbons without damaging the substrate.
